NAVY DIRIGIBLE IN ADVENTUROUS FLIGHT

STORMS, WIND,
HAIL, LIGHTNING
ARE ENCOUNTERED

"LOS ANGELES" FLEW 2,500
MILES FROM UNITED

LEAVES CANAL ZONE THIS MORNING TO FLY ON TO CUBA

Balboa, C. Z., Feb. 28.—(UP)—The United States Navy Dirigible Los Angeles left France Field at 10:30 a. m. today for a flight to join the tender Patoka at Guantanamo, Cuba, naval base.

Balboa, Canal Zone, Feb. 28.—(UP)—The United States Navy Dirigible Los Angeles was made ready today—after its adventurous 2,250 mile flight from the United States—to take off for Cuba at 8 a. m.

The big dirigible, which this morning floated lazily from a 60 foot mooring mast at France Field, was refueled last night with 3,600 gallons of gasoline.

It will be flown to join the tender Patoka in Cuban waters—a flight estimated at 24 hours.

The landing, after more than 39 hours in the air, was a majestic sight.

The silvery craft, was first sighted over the Canal Zone at 9:15 p. m. The dull drone of its motors first attracted the thousands waiting in the streets and, at the landing field.

A few minutes later the flicker of the cabin lights of the Los Angeles could be seen and then the great lighter-than-air vessel could be seen floating serenely through a sky lighted by a tropical half-moon.

Lights from vessels reflected against its sides while flood lights from the field soon picked it up. The thousands in the streets sent up a cheer. The crowd was likened to that which received Col. Charles A. Lindbergh six weeks ago.

But the Los Angeles was not brought to an immediate landing. It floated over Colon and then shortly before 10 p. m., it put to the mooring mast, under which 300 sailors stood in V formation ready to aid the landing.

Landing was made easily and the cabin soon was settling down a scant ten feet from the ground. Ladders were dropped and Commander Rosendahl, with six other officers, descended to receive official greetings and the lusty throated greeting from 4,000 persons at the flying field at 11:05 p. m.

Rosendahl was greeted by Admiral Christy, commanding the Fifteenth Naval District; Commander Francis Maile of the Coco Solo air station and Lieut. Col. Fisher of France Field.

The Los Angeles officer said they had encountered storms, wind, and hail and lightning on the long journey—the longest undertaken since to the United States several years the craft was flown from Germany ago.

Winds over the Caribbean sea delayed arrival of the Los Angeles, which had been scheduled for 6 p. m.

Rosendahl said the vessel was flown at an average height of 1,600 feet and at times had climbed to 2,000 feet.

The flight to the Canal Zone consumed 21,000 pounds of gasoline, he said, and the actual distance covered was estimated at 2,250 miles.

Members of the crew remained aboard the Los Angeles last night making ready for the return flight to Cuba. They supervised the refueling.

There was no air craft reception to the Los Angeles, as planes had been ordered from the skies in the belief their presence might confuse the navigator of the big dirigible.

The Los Angeles put out from Lakehurst, N. J., at 6:55 Sunday and proceeded a steady course towards this port. At 1:15 a. m., Monday it was over the Bahamas. It cleared Cuba, where the steam tender Patoka with its mooring mast was anchored, at about 7 a. m.

Before leaving the Panama area for the Cuban flight, the Los Angeles was to fly over the canal and Panama City. She was to clear the Canal Zone about noon for her Caribbean sea passage.

A large crowd watched the departure of the big dirigible—a novelty on the Isthmus.

Melton Mowbray, Eng., Feb. 28.—(UP)—Injuries to Prince Henry, who was hurt when his horse fell during the Quorn fox-hounds hunt, today were said to be no more than severe bruises.

DECLARED TO BE LIVING VOL-

SAID THAT ENGLISHMAN IS NOT LOST IN BRAZILIAN JUNG-

Rio De Janeiro, Feb. 28.—(UP)—Colonel P. H. Fawcett distinguished British explorer who has been missing in the Brazilian jungle since 1925, is living voluntarily with an uncivilized Indian tribe, Luis De Luc, former chief of police of Cuyaba, in Matto Grosso, believes.

Le Duc visited the United Press on his arrival here. He expressed surprise that people thought Col. Fawcett was lost and said he probably would return to civilization eventually.

"Col. Fawcett, with his son and another companion, entered the jungle early in 1925," Le Duc said. "He returned to Cuyaba because his son became ill, but returned to the jungle about November, 1925."

"Col. Fawcett told me he intended to live with an Indian tribe for a few years. I advised him to go far into the interior, and live with a tribe there that had not come into contact with civilization, for those that have come into such contact are most dangerous because of their continual fights with the white people."

Le Duc was one of the last white men to see Col. Fawcett. He had been living on a ranch in Minas Geraes during the last year.

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Geneva, Feb. 24.—(UP)—Protest against the wordage of the League of Nations covenant article recognizing the Monroe Doctrine was made by Argentina today before the League Security Commission.

Argentine delegate Cantillo declared that the Monroe Doctrine was not a regional understanding but an individual declaration of policy by the United States.

The article in question reads: "Nothing in this covenant shall be deemed to affect the validity of international engagements such as treaties of arbitration or regional understandings like the Monroe Doctrine for securing the maintenance of peace."

The article was not in the original covenant as read to the Versailles peace conference by Woodrow Wilson, but was inserted later.

"The Monroe Doctrine was a declaration of political policy by the United States at the time of the European holy alliance," Cantillo said. "It was made to prevent any extension of the holy alliance system to the American continent. While it rendered great services to America in the early days of its existence, and honors the United States in its defense of justice and liberty, it should not be referred to as a regional understanding."

"It is purely an individual declaration of principle, and has no application to the regional agreements being discussed here."

The regional agreements under discussion were the group-nation treaties pledging mutual support if any nation is attacked.

Kucharo has set March 6 as a tentative date for breaking the fast.

STERN HAND OF
AMONG MOUNTIES

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 28.—(UP)—The stern hand of justice led Sergeant James Painter of the Manitoba provincial police force to arrest his brother-in-law, Albert V. Westgate, Winnipeg taxi driver, who, police believe, is responsible for the brutal killing of Mrs. Lottie Adams, St. Vital housewife. The woman's body, for which the entire district has searched for the past week, was discovered Monday buried in a snowbank, less than a mile from her little home on the outskirts of Winnipeg.

ENFORCE DISCIPLINE ON TROUSER SEATS
IF NECESSARY

Indianapolis, Feb. 28.—(UP)—Miss Florence Brant, second grade teacher in the Washington township school, had permission of the courts today to enforce discipline on unruly pupils with a firm hand, directed, if need be, at trouser seats.

Judge Clifford R. Cameron, dismissing a charge of assault and battery brought against Miss Brant because she spanked James King, 8, laid down the principle that "a teacher has the same right to chastise an unruly child as its parents have."

Miss Brant testified she paddled James because he hurt little girls in the school yard.

WOODEN PLUG MAY HAVE BEEN
CAUSE OF DEATH

LEFT IN AIRHOLE OF GASOLINE
TANK OF BROOKS' FLIV-
VER PLANE

ONE THEORY IS THAT IT CAUSED
VACUUM IN TANK, SHUT
OFF FUEL SUPPLY

Melbourne, Fla., Feb. 28.—(UP)—A wooden plug, left in the air-hole of a gasoline tank, may have caused the death of Harry Brooks, Ford flyer, it was learned today.

Brooks has been missing since his "flivver" plane in which he flew from Detroit to Titusville, Fla., plunged into the Atlantic as he enroute further southward.

The plug, the size of a match, was found tightened in place. One theory was it had caused a vacuum in the tank which cut off the fuel supply to the motor sending the tiny plane into the Atlantic.

It was believed by mechanics who looked over the wreckage that Brooks or someone anxious to keep the gas from evaporating when the plane lay at Titusville awaiting a new propeller, had pushed the plug in and had forgotten to take it out when the flyer left Saturday.

No trace of the body of Brooks had been found early today, although fishing craft searched the sea near where the plane was washed ashore.

HOOVER BACKERS ELBOW WAY INTO THE PICTURE

ARE IN EVIDENCE IN NEW YORK
AND PENNSYLVANIA PO-
LITICAL SITUATION

SEEK BLOC AMONG 175 UNIN-
STRUCTED VOTERS OF
THESE STATES

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 28.—Hoover backers are elbowing their way into the New York and Pennsylvania picture and claim to have made arrangements which will guarantee their candidate a bloc among the 175 uninstructed voters of these two powerful states.

The Mellon-Vare coalition in Pennsylvania agreed here last week to place no obstacle in the path of the Hoover workers and indicated that it might swing to the secretary if he can prove his ability to carry one or two of the border (politically speaking) and middle western states.

In New York, the Hoover organization is hard at work to thwart the plan of Charles D. Hilles, Republican national committeeman, for a "draft Coolidge" delegation. They are lining up with the old Senator Wadsworth group and hope to lasso some of the upstate strength.

These two developments are considered highly significant by politicians here. Pennsylvania has 79 votes and New York 96. But aside from the numerical advantage to be gained in these states, the Hoover forces believe success there would have a tremendous influence upon such important party leaders as Secretary Mellon, William S. Vare, political dictator in Philadelphia, and Hilles, who was designated Republican leader of New York state.

None of these men looked kindly on the Hoover candidacy at the outset. The deal in Pennsylvania, however, indicated that any idea of open antagonism to Hoover will be dropped and that he may be permitted to have what he can get. W. L. Mellon, nephew of the secretary, who acts for him in political matters, has been quoted as saying there was much Hoover sentiment in Pennsylvania particularly among women. Then he named seven women among the fourteen delegates at large on the coalition convention slate.

The test proposed by the coalition is regarded as extremely exacting and Hoover may not be able to comply. What the group wants Hoover to prove is his ability to carry Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia or Missouri—border territory in politics—and one or two western states, probably Kansas or Oklahoma.

In New York, Hoover hopes to get enough of the minor leaders in line so that he may protest the action of Hilles. Undoubtedly the delegation will be uninstructed but Hoover wants to line up the up-state group so that at the proper time in the balloting he may induce the whole delegation to swing to him. He is understood to have received several private pledges of support.

NEW METHOD OF TREATING
GALL STONES

DISCOVERY DRAINS GALL BLAD-
DER WITHOUT ANY SUR-
GERY

TREATMENT IS INJECTION OF
AN EXTRACT INTO BLOOD
OF PATIENT

Chicago, Feb. 28.—(UP)—A new method of treating gall stones by draining the gall bladder without surgery, discovered by research workers at Northwestern university, was termed today by leading physicians the greatest contribution to medical science since the discovery of insulin.

The secret lies in nature's method of emptying the gall bladder, which is accomplished by a secretion, produced by the lining of the intestines. If it is stopped or retarded, the gall bladder fails to empty itself.

The treatment consists in injecting the purified extract of the secretion, which is called cholecystokin, into the blood of the patient.

Announcement of the discovery was made before the Chicago Society of Internal Medicine after nine months' experimentation on animals. It was credited to Dr. A. C. Ivy, professor of physiology at the university, who was assisted by Dr. Grand Kloster, Eric Oldberg and Harold Lueth, research workers.

SEEKS IMMEDIATE REMEDY TO AID
SOFT COAL FIELDS

Indiana, Pa., Feb. 28.—(UP)—Senator Gooding (Rep., Idaho) declared today an immediate remedy must be found to relieve conditions in the bituminous coal fields of Pennsylvania.

Gooding, chairman of the senate interstate commerce sub-committee investigating conditions which have resulted from a controversy between mine operators and the United Mine Workers of America, said the welfare of the entire country was endangered by industrial war.

"Conditions which exist in the strike-torn coal regions of the Pittsburgh district are a blotch upon American civilization," Gooding said. "It is inconceivable that such squalor, suffering, misery and distress should be tolerated in the heart of one of the richest industrial centers of the world."

"The committee found men, women and children living in hovels which are more unsanitary than a modern swine-pen. There are breeding places of sickness and crime."

"They constitute fertile fields for the sower of communism, and other doctrines which teach the overthrow of American government. Industrial leaders of America cannot permit such conditions to continue."

"The dispute in the Pittsburgh soft coal fields is more than a local fight between a union and a group of coal operators. It is an industrial war that affects the entire nation. A remedy must be found to relieve the shocking conditions which the committee has found in its first-hand survey in the coal mines and camps."

HOME OF COLORADO

TANGLED SKEINS IN MARITAL LIFE

Chicago, Feb. 28.—(UP)—Alden D. MacLellan wanted a divorce from his wife, who had left their Minneapolis home, but couldn't sue her because she had gone out of the state.

He followed her to Chicago and swore out a warrant charging her with larceny, hoping, her attorneys said, to have her extradited to Minneapolis.

Mrs. MacLellan, learning of his arrival here, obtained a writ which prevents him from going back home. At the same time, she filed suit for divorce. Now MacLellan must remain in Cook county until her suit is disposed of.

ENFORCE DISCIPLINE ON TROUSER SEATS IF NECESSARY

Indianapolis, Feb. 28.—(UP)—Miss Florence Brant, second grade teacher in the Washington township school, had permission of the courts today to enforce discipline on unruly pupils with a firm hand, directed, if need be, at trouser seats.

Judge Clifford R. Cameron, dismissing a charge of assault and battery brought against Miss Brant because she spanked James King, 8, laid down the principle that "a teacher has the same right to chastise an unruly child as its parents have."

Miss Brant testified she paddled James because he hurt little girls in the school yard.

WOODEN PLUG MAY HAVE BEEN CAUSE OF DEATH

TANK OF BROOKS' FLIV-
VER PLANE

ONE THEORY IS THAT IT CAUSED
VACUUM IN TANK, SHUT
OFF FUEL SUPPLY

Melbourne, Fla., Feb. 28.—(UP)—A wooden plug, left in the air-hole of a gasoline tank, may have caused the death of Harry Brooks, Ford flyer, it was learned today.

Brooks has been missing since his "flivver" plane in which he flew from Detroit to Titusville, Fla., plunged into the Atlantic as he was enroute further southward.

The plug, the size of a match, was found tightened in place. One theory was it had caused a vacuum in the tank which cut off the fuel supply to the motor, sending the tiny plane into the Atlantic.

It was believed by mechanics who looked over the wreckage that Brooks or someone anxious to keep the gas from evaporating when the plane lay at Titusville awaiting a new propeller, had pushed the plug in and had forgotten to take it out when the flyer left Saturday.

No trace of the body of Brooks has been found early today, although fishing craft searched the sea near where the plane was washed ashore.

HOOVER BACKERS ELBOW WAY INTO THE PICTURE

ARE IN EVIDENCE IN NEW YORK
AND PENNSYLVANIA PO-
LITICAL SITUATION

SEEK BLOC AMONG 175 UNIN-
STRUCTED VOTERS OF
THESE STATES

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 28.—Hoover backers are elbowing their way into the New York and Pennsylvania picture and claim to have made arrangements which will guarantee their candidate a bloc among the 175 uninstructed votes of these two powerful states.

The Mellon-Vare coalition in Pennsylvania agreed here last week to place no obstacle in the path of the Hoover workers and indicated that it might swing to the secretary if he can prove his ability to carry one or two of the border (politically speaking) and middle western states.

In New York, the Hoover organization is hard at work to thwart the plan of Charles D. Hilles, Republican national committeeman, for a "draft Coolidge" delegation. They are lining up with the old Senator Wadsworth group and hope to lasso some of the upstate strength.

These two developments are considered highly significant by politicians here. Pennsylvania has 79 votes and New York 96. But aside from the numerical advantage to be gained in these states, the Hoover forces believe success there would have a tremendous influence upon such important party leaders as Secretary Mellon, William S. Vare, political dictator in Philadelphia, and Hilles, who was designated Republican leader of New York state.

None of these men looked kindly on the Hoover candidacy at the outset. The deal in Pennsylvania, however, indicated that any idea of open antagonism to Hoover will be dropped and that he may be permitted to have what he can get. W. L. Mellon, nephew of the secretary, who acts for him in political matters, has been quoted as saying there was much Hoover sentiment in Pennsylvania particularly among women. Then he named seven women among the fourteen delegates at large on the coalition convention slate.

The test proposed by the coalition is regarded as extremely exacting and Hoover may not be able to comply. What the group wants Hoover to prove is his ability to carry Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia or Missouri—border territory in politics—and one or two western states, probably Kansas or Oklahoma.

In New York, Hoover hopes to get enough of the minor leaders in line so that he may protest the action of Hilles. Undoubtedly the delegation will be uninstructed but Hoover wants to line up the up-state group so that at the proper time in the balloting he may induce the whole delegation to swing to him. He is understood to have received several private pledges of support.

NEW METHOD OF TREATING GALL STONES

DISCOVERY DRAINS GALL BLAD-
DER WITHOUT ANY SUR-
GERY

TREATMENT IS INJECTION OF
AN EXTRACT INTO BLOOD
OF PATIENT

Chicago, Feb. 28.—(UP)—A new method of treating gall stones by draining the gall bladder without surgery, discovered by research workers at Northwestern university, was termed today by leading physicians the greatest contribution to medical science since the discovery of insulin.

The secret lies in nature's method of emptying the gall bladder, which is accomplished by a secretion, produced by the lining of the intestines. If it is stopped or retarded, the gall bladder fails to empty itself.

The treatment consists in injecting the purified extract of the secretion, which is called cholecystokin, into the blood of the patient. Announcement of the discovery was made before the Chicago Society of Internal Medicine after nine months' experimentation on animals. It was credited to Dr. A. C. Ivy, professor of physiology at the university, who was assisted by Dr. Grand Kloster, Eric Oldberg and Harold Lueth, research workers.

SEEKS IMMEDIATE REMEDY TO AID SOFT COAL FIELDS

Indiana, Pa., Feb. 28.—(UP)—Senator Gooding (Rep., Idaho) declared today an immediate remedy must be found to relieve conditions in the bituminous coal fields of Pennsylvania.

Gooding, chairman of the senate interstate commerce sub-committee investigating conditions which have resulted from a controversy between mine operators and the United Mine Workers of America, said the welfare of the entire country was endangered by industrial war.

"Conditions which exist in the strike-torn coal regions of the Pittsburgh district are a blot upon American civilization," Gooding said. "It is inconceivable that such squalor, suffering, misery and distress should be tolerated in the heart of one of the richest industrial centers of the world."

"The committee found men, women and children living in hovels which are more unsanitary than a modern swine pen. There are breeding places of sickness and crime."

"They constitute fertile fields for the sower of communism, and other doctrines which teach the overthrow of American government. Industrial leaders of America cannot permit such conditions to continue."

"The dispute in the Pittsburgh soft coal fields is more than a local fight between a union and a group of coal operators. It is an industrial war that affects the entire nation. A remedy must be found to relieve the shocking conditions which the committee has found in its first-hand survey in the coal mines and camps."

TANGLED SKEINS IN MARITAL LIFE

Chicago, Feb. 28.—(UP)—Alden D. MacLellan wanted a divorce from his wife, who had left their Minneapolis home, but couldn't sue her because she had gone out of the state.

He followed her to Chicago and swore out a warrant charging her with larceny, hoping, her attorneys said, to have her extradited to Minneapolis.

Mrs. MacLellan, learning of his arrival here, obtained a writ which prevents him from going back home. At the same time, she filed suit for divorce. Now MacLellan must remain in Cook county until her suit is disposed of.

HARD TO DOPE OUT A WINNER AMONG THE BOXERS

MCAULIFFE IN REVIEW OF THE HEAVYWEIGHTS

DIFFICULT TO SELECT WINNER AMONG FIGHTERS TO MEET GENE TUNNEY

TOM HEENEY IS A SLOW PLODDER AND LACKS CHAMPION MAKEUP

By JACK MCAULIFFE
Retired Undeclared Lightweight Champion

(Written for the United Press)
New York, Feb. 28.—(UP)—It is harder to dope out the winner among the fighters who hope to meet Gene Tunney than it is to pick winners at the winter race tracks. And when I speak of how hard that is, I know what I am talking about.

The heavyweights today are not consistent. Jack Delaney, before he met Jimmy Maloney last year, looked as though he might be a real championship possibility. After losing to Maloney, he was a flop. If it had not been for that fight, Delaney would be my choice to win next Thursday's bout. He is doing a little better now, but one cannot trust him.

Tom Heeneey is a slow plodder and lacks the spark which makes a champion.

Jack Sharkey, in his fight with Dempsey, looked to me as though he could have whipped Tunney any day in the week. Yet in his fight with Heeneey, Sharkey flopped.

They don't run to form. Tommy Loughran looks the best of the lot today. Certainly he is the most consistent. But we must wait and see what happens in the Risiko-Sharkey and Delaney-Heeneey fights, and then perhaps we will have a better line on the heavyweights.

Y TEAM TO PLAY FOLEY TONIGHT

The "Y" team will journey to Foley tonight where they will play the Foley American Legion team in a fast game. This will prove to be very interesting in view of the fact that the Foley team has defeated some of the fastest independent teams of the state such as Kippy's Gophers and the 151st Artillery. Those who will play are Captain Welsh, Beck, Orth, Fitzharris, Zakariassen and Hess.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 27.—Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, the home run twins, were scheduled to participate in the opening workout of the training season with the world champion New York Yankees here today.

"I'm not down here to play

SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY
UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

The unsatisfactory outcome of the recent Olympic winter sports at St. Moritz, in which the United States representatives felt it necessary to lodge official protests against what they considered discrimination, emphasizes the need for further development of the competitive spirit in amateur athletics, according to a Harrisburg, Pa., correspondent.

The following letter, from a not unfamiliar contributor to this column, is self-explanatory:

Harrisburg, Pa.

"Dear Sir:

The other day in the barber's I read about the Olympic winter bouts and I'm glad I did for they gave me an idea. I read where the Americans walked out good and mad after the Swedes or somebody had taken back the prizes. That is the way I like to see the boys snap out of it. There is too much aroma of professionalism about some amateur events. Some of these guys think they are just out there to play something instead of to win.

For instance, these tennis players give me a pain when they kiss each other after they're beaten. They give me a pain anyway. But a couple of them like Tilden are O. K. for tennis players. Tilden will stick out his tongue at a referee any time and if he was playing football I imagine he would cry in the dressing room if licked just like any good player.

But to get back to Switzerland in case you didn't see the story, it was like this. The American guy started off in the 10,000 meter skating race early in the morning when the ice was good and considering he was up against a lot of tough Norwegian boys and Polacks he didn't do so bad, only 1 minute 19½ seconds behind the record, anyhow. Well, then, Carlson, who holds the record, he started to skate but by that time the ice was so soft it took him 20 minutes so they called the race off because half the field hadn't skated and you couldn't get no farther than a squirrel in a cage.

The Americans, with Gus Kirby doing the talking, protested. "Protest over-ruled," said the watch-maker who had charge of the show. "Over-ruled hell!" came back Gus. "Supposing we over-rule some of your milk chocolate and gruyere cheese, where will you be?"

That is what I am for. What we need is amateurism besides bigger and better expense accounts so the boys won't lose interest, is the competitive spirit. When a couple of boys in my district get in a fight, they knock each other down and stamp on him, which is the competitive spirit. They want to win. They better if they like their face.

That is the sort of thing we need in amateur games only openly and not smelled up with Houbigant like it is now. What we want to do is get these guys to recognize the amateur spirit of no win, no expense account. Then we can put amateurism in the big money class and maybe get Tex Rickard or somebody interested and then the Olympics will be like football and other games and sportsmen like us will be able to take some interest in them.

Hoping you will publish this, for it is the goods,

Respectfully yours,
JOE CARUPA."

BRAINERD ENTERS TOURNAMENT THURSDAY

LITTLE FALLS IS FIRST TO OPPOSE LOCALS AT AITKIN

ALL THE TEAMS REPORTED AT HEIGHT OF STRENGTH AND HOPEFUL OF HONORS

BRAINERD TO BACK TEAM WITH LARGE DELEGATION TO ALL GAMES

Brainerd high school in their fight for the tournament championship at Aitkin deserves the whole-hearted support of every Brainerd citizen.

In order to win the tournament Brainerd will have to play headups basketball from the first game to the last. It will be a fight all the way and a case of the strongest aggregation surviving.

The tournament as far as Brainerd is interested in opens Thursday night with the local cagers meeting Little Falls at 8 o'clock. At 9 p. m., Crosby-Ironton will meet the grade B champions. In the afternoon Staples will meet Pine River at 3 o'clock and at 4 o'clock the winner of the Wadena-Aitkin game to be played tomorrow will meet Motley.

Friday night the teams will enter the semi-finals. The winner of the Brainerd-Little Falls game will meet the winner of the Staples-Pine River game, in the first event at 8 o'clock. The winner of the Crosby-Grade B game will meet the winner of the Wadena-Motley-Aitkin play-off.

The finals will be played Saturday night.

"It looks to me like the winner of the tournament will have to work every single minute," said Coach Kasch today. "Upsets can be expected on account of the evenness of the teams. Staples defeated Wadena the other night which gives an indication of the strength of the Staples team. Staples and Wadena are on opposite brackets as well as Crosby-Ironton, Brainerd and Little Falls, signifying that it will not be a surprise to see any of these teams in the finals."

Brainerd will send a large delegation of fans to all games at the tournament. Besides those who will drive by automobile, many will take advantage of rates on buses and specially reduced prices on trains.

Smith of Bemidji will officiate at all games.

At the Training Camps

(By United Press)

Avalon, Catalina Island, Feb. 27.—With a full squad in camp, the Chicago Cubs began training in earnest today with morning and afternoon workouts.

The final group of players reported Sunday, including Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler, Hack Wilson, Riggs Stephen son and Fred Maguire, second baseman, who is expected to fill Sparky Adams' shoes.

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 27.—The hold-out tactics of Sad Sam Jones, veteran Washington pitcher, have caused President Clark Griffith to withdraw a $10,000 contract offered him and substitute another at a smaller salary.

"He can take it or leave it," Griffith said.

The early showing of the Senator hurlers has convinced Griffith that the club can get along without Jones if necessary.

Fred Marberry, star relief pitcher, has reported and was to take his first workout today.

Paso Robles, Cal., Feb. 27.—Paul and Lloyd Waner have reported to the Pittsburgh Pirates' camp ready for work.

The Pirates are looking forward to the arrival Tuesday of Travis Waner, cousin of the famous brothers.

Paul and Lloyd predict Travis will make good, giving the Pirates an entire Waner outfield this season.

Avon Park, Fla., Feb. 27.—After helping Grover Cleveland Alexander celebrate his forty-first birthday on Sunday, the St. Louis Cardinals were scheduled to go back to work here today.

Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 27.—Unless Vic Aldridge, veteran right-handed pitcher obtained in a trade from Pittsburgh, accepts the salary offered him, the New York Giants will hold no further negotiations with him.

Manager John McGraw said the Giants had offered Aldridge $1,000 more a season than he received with the Pirates.

The Giants were to hold their last workout here today and move to their training camp at Augusta, Ga., on Tuesday.

BRAINERD ALLEYS SCHEDULE GAMES

FIRST GAME WITH OUTSIDE TEAMS TO BE ROLLED HERE ON MARCH 11

The team representing the Brainerd alleys, composed of Ziebell, Van Essen, Block, Johnson and Demmers, who rolled 2794 against the Little Falls Elks last Sunday have games scheduled with Fergus Falls, Bayport, St. Cloud Auto Supply, Raymond Bros., St. Cloud and St. Cloud Recreations.

The first game will be rolled Sunday, March 11 on the home alleys.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 27.—Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, the home run twins, were scheduled to participate in the opening workout of the training season with the world champion New York Yankees here today.

"I'm not down here to play around," Ruth said, "but to get into shape to make an early start. I lost a lot of time last spring, and I don't intend to let it happen again this season."

LITTLE FALLS IS FIRST TO OPPOSE LOCALS AT AITKIN

ALL THE TEAMS REPORTED AT HEIGHT OF STRENGTH AND HOPEFUL OF HONORS

BRAINERD TO BACK TEAM WITH LARGE DELEGATION TO ALL GAMES

Brainerd high school in their fight for the tournament championship at Aitkin deserves the wholehearted support of every Brainerd citizen.

In order to win the tournament Brainerd will have to play headups basketball from the first game to the last. It will be a fight all the way and a case of the strongest aggregation surviving.

The tournament as far as Brainerd is interested in opens Thursday night with the local cagers meeting Little Falls, at 8 o'clock. At 9 p. m., Crosby-Ironton will meet the grade B champions. In the afternoon Staples will meet Pine River at 3 o'clock and at 4 o'clock the winner of the Wadena-Aitkin game to be played tomorrow will meet Motley.

Friday night the teams will enter the semi-finals. The winner of the Brainerd-Little Falls game will meet the winner of the Staples-Pine River game, in the first event at 8 o'clock. The winner of the Crosby-Grade B game will meet the winner of the Wadena-Motley-Aitkin play-off.

The finals will be played Saturday night.

"It looks to me like the winner of the tournament will have to work every single minute" said Coach Kasch today. "Upsets can be expected on account of the evenness of the teams. Staples defeated Wadena the other night which gives an indication of the strength of the Staples team. Staples and Wadena are on opposite brackets as well as Crosby-Ironton, Brainerd and Little Falls, signifying that it will not be a surprise to see any of these teams in the finals."

Brainerd will send a large delegation of fans to all games at the tournament. Besides those who will drive by automobile, many will take advantage of rates on buses and specially reduced prices on trains.

Smith of Bemidji will officiate at all games.

At the Training Camps

(By United Press)
Avalon, Catalina Island, Feb. 27.—With a full squad in camp, the Chicago Cubs began training in earnest today with morning and afternoon workouts.

The final group of players reported Sunday, including Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler, Hack Wilson, Riggs Stephenson and Fred Maguire, second baseman, who is expected to fill Sparky Adams' shoes.

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 27.—The hold-out tactics of Sad Sam Jones, veteran Washington pitcher, have caused President Clark Griffith to withdraw a $10,000 contract offered him and substitute another at a smaller salary.

"He can take it or leave it," Griffith said.

The early showing of the Senator hurlers has convinced Griffith that the club can get along without Jones if necessary.

Fred Marberry, star relief pitcher, has reported and was to take his first workout today.

Paso Robles, Cal., Feb. 27.—Paul and Lloyd Waner have reported to the Pittsburgh Pirates' camp ready for work.

The Pirates are looking forward to the arrival Tuesday of Travia Waner, cousin of the famous brothers.

Paul and Lloyd predict Travia will make good, giving the Pirates an entire Waner outfield this season.

Avon Park, Fla., Feb. 27.—After helping Grover Cleveland Alexander celebrate his forty-first birthday on Sunday, the St. Louis Cardinals were scheduled to go back to work here today.

Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 27.—Unlabeled Vic Aldridge, veteran right-handed pitcher obtained in a trade from Pittsburgh, accepts the salary offered him, the New York Giants will hold no further negotiations with him.

Manager John McGraw said the Giants had offered Aldridge $1,000 more a season than he received with the Pirates.

The Giants were to hold their last workout here today and move to their training camp at Augusta, Ga., on Tuesday.

SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY
UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

The unsatisfactory outcome of the recent Olympic winter sports at St. Moritz, in which the United States representatives felt it necessary to lodge official protests against what they considered discrimination, emphasizes the need for further development of the competitive spirit in amateur athletics, according to a Harrisburg, Pa., correspondent.

The following letter, from a not unfamiliar contributor to this column, is self-explanatory:

"Dear Sir:

The other day in the barber's I read about the Olympic winter bouts and I'm glad I did for they gave me an idea. I read where the Americans walked out good and mad after the Swedes or somebody had taken back the prizes.

That is the way I like to see the boys snap out of it. There is too much aroma of professionalism about some amateur events. Some of these guys think they are just out there to play something instead of to win.

For instance, these tennis players give me a pain when they kiss each other after they're beaten. They give me a pain anyway. But a couple of them like Tilden are O. K. for tennis players. Tilden will stick out his tongue at a referee any time and if he was playing football I imagine he would cry in the dressing room if licked just like any good player.

But to get back to Switzerland in case you didn't see the story, it was like this. The American guy started off in the 10,000 meter skating race early in the morning when the ice was good and considering he was up against a lot of tough Norwegian boys and Polacks he didn't do so bad, only 1 minute 19½ seconds behind the record, anyhow. Well, then, Carlson, who holds the record, he started to skate but by that time the ice was so soft it took him 20 minutes so they called the race off because half the field hadn't skated and you couldn't get no farther than a squirrel in a cage.

The Americans, with Gus Kirby doing the talking, protested. "Protest over-ruled," said the watch-maker who had charge of the show. "Over-ruled hell!" came back Gus. "Supposing we over-rule some of your milk chocolate and gruyere cheese, where will you be?"

That is what I am for. What we need is amateurism besides bigger and better expense accounts so the boys won't lose interest, is the competitive spirit. When a couple of boys in my district get in a fight, they knock each other down and stamp on him, which is the competitive spirit. They want to win. They better if they like their face.

That is the sort of thing we need in amateur games only openly and not smelled up with Houbigant like it is now. What we want to do is get these guys to recognize the amateur spirit of no win, no expense account. Then we can put amateurism in the big money class and maybe get Tex Rickard or somebody interested and then the Olympics will be like football and other games and sportsmen like us will be able to take some interest in them.

Hoping you will publish this, for it is the goods,

Respectfully yours,
JOE CARUPA."

TO SOLVE DISEASES OF MIDDLE AGE

ALBERT D. LASKER, establishing a special fund of $1,000,000 for medical research of the sort which seeks to prevent or cure what physicians call "the diseases of middle age," remarks the St. Cloud Daily Times, reminds us that we lean too heavily on the doctors for health and happiness.

The doctors do wonders. But they cannot keep any man in good health against his will. There are very simple rules by which many of the "diseases of middle age" can be prevented, and doctors are always urging them upon their patients. But patients seldom take the trouble to listen.

In thousands of laboratories throughout the world specialists in various fields of medical research are seeking constantly for a better knowledge of the forces of life and better means for the control of disease. The Rockefeller Institute has more than once seemed on the verge of discovering the secret of animation and the causes that bring it to an end. Yet it is safe to say that nothing that the science of chemistry or the science of medicine can do will be so effective to prolong life and to prevent "the diseases of middle age" as the simple rules of life, which most people, knowing their value, continue to ignore.

Too much worry, too much work, too much food, too much drink, too much physical ease, too much luxury, and not enough fresh air, exercise, and sleep shorten most lives. And doctors, try as they will, seem able to do very little about it.

Golf has been a godsend to some of the stout men. It has provided moderate exercise, open air, and something to talk about.

BORROWED BOOKS

SOMETIMES the literal mind beats the tactful one, all hollow, in getting results. This is taking no account of hurt feelings, of course; but then, the literal thinkers may come back with the assertion that theirs is the higher tactfulness, since they deal with other people's known disadvantages.

Thus might be regarded the Kansas City husband who acted literally on his wife's notion, expressed with her wish that her friends would return the books they had borrowed of her. Her notion was to run an ad. And that was as far as she went with it.

Not so her husband. Without notifying his wife, he ran the ad. Mrs. Soandso, it read, "wishes that her friends would return borrowed books, so she can loan them out again."

It worked, too. Before Mrs. Soandso knew the ad had been run, she began to get the books back. She had about a hundred out. They came pouring in.

Perhaps the literal mind has discovered the way out, where book folk long have failed for lack of courage, or tact, or something. Even the device of a Return Borrowed Books Week only flashed and then flickered out.

Some will say that all of the credit belongs to advertising. It is too broad a claim. Without advertising, of course, the literal mind that employed it would have been just as impotent as the woman who wished she had her books back. But the initiative that produced the advertisement will command the admiration of many a book lender.—Minneapolis Journal.

MEMORIAL JAILS

A PROPOSAL comes from Texas to dedicate a jail to its most illustrious prisoner. As a memorial it would be made over into a library. It isn't necessary to name the man who occupied the cell. He later served a term in a penitentiary. He protested his innocence of wrongdoing and he became one of the best liked writers of America. Some of his friends think this one episode in his life should drop into oblivion. Others apparently would challenge it grandly with the memorial jail.

In this his friends should decide, but for general purposes as a new memorializing idea it is attractive. Although testimonials to the works of men have almost exhausted the ingenuity of their admirers, certain activities of citizenship have not been recognized in any permanent form.

The Cook county jail might be reconstructed as a brewery and dedicated to Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake. If oil finally gets any one set for ten days, six weeks or three months that sacred place could be converted into an oil filling station with a tablet commemorative of its noble inmate. In general application of the idea communities might get memorial distilleries, banks, law offices, municipal buildings and some high grade chicken coops, possibly a state house or two and some arsenals.—Chicago Tribune.

MOST VALUABLE ASSET

"To what do you attribute your success," we asked a successful business man. His answer came back promptly: "I always made an effort to discount all of my bills. I was especially careful not to overlook small accounts that have a tendency to grow when neglected."

All successful men will tell much the same story. Credit is every man's most priceless asset. You never know when you may need financial backing, when your good credit will give you an opportunity to make big money.

The man who is commonly said to be "good pay" can usually secure financial support from others when needed. The man who is referred to as "slow" or "no good" can rarely get financial backing regardless of his ability as an entertainer or reputation as a "good fellow."—Hennepin County Review.

SOME people wonder why George Washington filled his diary with weather reports. The general was a scientific farmer and as the government had no weather bureau or agricultural department, the Father of his Country kept his own weather data, compiled his own charts and planted and sowed and reaped accordingly.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR W. I. NOLAN, who addressed local Elks on Past Exalted Rulers night, also spoke at Mankato lodge on a similar night which honored the Past Exalted Rulers.

ASHES and sand should be sprinkled on slippery sidewalks. The covering of snow at present gives no indication of the direction of the ice slant.

NUMBER 23

BRAINERD LOSES

TO C.-I.; DEFEATS LITTLE FALLS

Brainerd continued to add to its string of victories when it defeated Little Falls, 26-16, last Wednesday evening on the opponents' floor. The game was not very interesting. Despite the fact that Brainerd won by such a large margin, they did not show any outstanding display of offense.

If the game was an indication of Little Falls' strength, Brainerd should win their first game of the tournament. But a number of the fans that witnessed the game are under the impression that as there was nothing much to gain, Little Falls played somewhat of a stalling game. One thing is certain: they were not anxious to get their points on long shots. Little Falls did not get a field goal until near the end of the third quarter.

Substitutions were frequent for Brainerd. Kasch had the opportunity to try different combinations and it was because of these that Little Falls had a chance to get their scores.

Little Falls was somewhat handicapped by the loss of Konchal, a big feature in the scoring card, on account of scholarship standing.

C.-I.-Brainerd

Brainerd's winning streak was broken by the strong C.-I. team Friday night on the opponents' floor, 17-14. Crosby deserved the victory because they played better ball than the locals.

C.-I. started the game with a bang and took the lead which they did not lose the entire game. The score at the first quarter was 5 to 4, at the half 11 to 8, and at the end of the third quarter 13 to 12, all in favor of C.-I. The third quarter was the only time that Brainerd outscored their opponents.

One thing was certain to the spectators: Brainerd was not used to the floor conditions. Time and time again they would shoot and the shots would fall short every time. This may prove somewhat to Brainerd's disadvantage at the tournament but it is certain that the boys will play a better game of ball.

Welliver was high point man for Brainerd with three baskets. This was the first game of the season that Wise was held scoreless. "Franky" deserves credit though, as he played the entire game despite the fact that he had been ill the day preceding.

Smart and R. Krueger were leading scorers for Crosby-Ironton with two baskets and a free throw.

We notice that the George Washington bust and the flag have been moved in the assembly to clear the board on which the announcements are written.

Monday afternoon a second administration of toxin-antitoxin was given to those who had taken the first dose.

There was less curiosity and a sense of self assurance filled the air. Experience still docters.

THE C.-I. GAME

We can't get used to such a thing
As losing a district game,
But what are we gonna do,
When we are not to blame?

The C.-I. gym has got a floor
That scares us at the sight.
If we had one not near so big
We'd think it quite all right.

When one of our boys gets the ball
He runs to throw it in,
But, where's the basket, out of sight!
Too far away for him.

The players, too, are pretty good.
They run around the floor
A-throwin' them from right and left,
Just making score on score.

Oh, well, we shouldn't worry.
The boys have done their best.
If C.-I. won't give us a game
Next year, we'll be their pest.

CHEMISTRY STUDENTS FINISH CONTEST ESSAYS

The Chemistry students of both classes wrote essays for the Gawan Scholarship Contest. It is sponsored by the American Chemical Society for which big awards are offered—scholarships to Yale and Vassar, also 20 dollars in gold to each of the six best in every state.

The contestants entering must write on the six topics given: The Relation of Chemistry to Health and Disease, to the Enrichment of Life, to Agriculture, to Forestry, to National Defense, to the Home, to the Development of an Industry, and to the Reformation of the United States.

Mr. Gridley considered the following contestants' essays good enough to send in to the State Society—Lois Untereker, Edith Johnson, Maude Thompson, Elsie Swanson, Elmer Anderson, Carl Maxe, Verne McNamara, Donald McNamara, Orval Herington, Dale Sanders, Winel Barnes, Kenneth Storm, Margaret Jackson, and Joseph Greener.

The material for the essay was procured from the Public Library and also from the Library in the Chemistry Room.

FREE THROW CONTEST AT INTERCLASS GAMES

A free throw contest will be held for the girls for the first time. It will be held between the last two games of the interclass tournament on the seventh of March.

Each class can have one girl to represent it. This girl will be appointed by the coach or elected by the members present at a practice. Letter girls are eligible.

Some of the Semper Paratus club members canvassed the various assemblies. Thursday morning selling tickets for the Declamation contest to be held that night.

A couple of Senior meetings were held during the week concerning the sleighride to Merrifield which was held on Saturday.

Many of the students witnessed the Little Falls-Brainerd game there and also the Crosby-Ironton-Brainerd game there.

If one sees some of the English 4 students floating around in the halls, just know that he either thinks he is "The Happy Warrior" or is "Wandering Lonely As A Cloud." Such poems fill their hearts and souls now.

Tribute to the Seniors

While we were reciting Modern History in Miss Graham's room someone whispered excitedly, "A bird flew past the window!" That's a sign that Spring will soon be here," whispered another. "How do you know that?"

Spring is coming soon, just because a bird flew past the window?" and "What kind of a bird was he?" were the questions that went around the room. We all knew that robins announce Spring, blackbirds mean sorrow and bluebirds, of course, mean happiness. Some said the bird was larger and others were certain that it was smaller but not one of us was certain what kind of a bird it was that flew past the windows.

At the close of class later careful search in Miss Laipple's Nature Magazine, we all agreed that the description exactly fitted a cuckoo bird. So we Sophomores were of the opinion that this bird was not a herald of Spring but a common cuckoo bird that Mr. Kelly had brought with him especially for the Seniors to attract their attention while he took a class picture of these stately persons.

ANNUAL SALE CAMPAIGN STARTS ON TUESDAY

THIS YEAR'S BOOK WILL BE ONE OF THE BEST

YOU'LL WANT A '28 ANNUAL; ONE DOLLAR BRINGS IT TO YOU

Under the direction of Kathleen Early, a sales campaign for the '28 Brainonian was started this morning which will reach every student in high school. Publishing the annual is the largest task undertaken by the high school students. This year the seventh volume will be published, marking a steady increase in sales volume and in quality and quantity of contents.

Giving out information about the book, Miss Early said, "You'll want a '28 Annual. It's got 'it'—what-ever 'it' is. Just as soon as you've turned the first page you'll know I'm right. It's got life in it—and when you get it nicely decorated with authentic signatures! We'll see you sometime this week—till then keep in mind that your Annual costs you only one dollar!" Maybe she didn't say it exactly that way but that's what she meant.

And let me quote Muff Downie. He says, "I wish you could see the book as I can! If you could, you would positively want one or two. Why they even fought over last year's!"

This year's book has a very good looking Senior section, more than a catalogue—likenesses and all the dope!

The Activities section contains pictures and write-ups on Junior parties, Sophs' Valentine and other festivities, and several Freshmen affairs. The Semper Paratus club monopolizes enough space to tell about the Christmas program, declamation, causes and results, the Hard-Time Brawl, and the Annual Banquet. The Commercial club gets in a word about the sleigh ride.

The Hi-Y tells about the convention and proudly displays the large pile of empty bean cans behind the Y. M. C. A. hotel. The French and Latin clubs bid for space.

The Annual is one dollar—one first cost and no upkeep! You'll be asked for your opinion upon the vital question of this book's value in your eyes within the week so make up your mind. But don't kid yourself—you'll want a '28 Annual.

THE OPERETTA CAST IS NEARLY COMPLETE

The cast for the operetta, "Pickles", is almost complete.

There have been many trials for parts and a great deal of fine material has incidentally been discovered.

Miss Rickard shows much enthusiasm over the ready response of the Glee Clubs and the student body to the call for the trying out of the operetta characters. She says that up to this time prospects for a great success are clearly evident, regardless of the general tendency of the cast to learn the "Pickles" solo to the detriment of their own particular parts.

SIDE LIGHTS ON THE SENIOR SLEIGH RIDE

This was scheduled as a sleigh ride, but Muff Downie, Joe Greener, and Ray Meyers walked three miles before they caught up with the party—promises well for our outlook in track.

Two of the bobs tipped over—no body hurt but those at the bottom of the pile felt like the old fashioned football players when two elevens piled on them.

The beans eaten at Merrifield would supply even the Hi-Y bean feeds for some time to come.

Our famous hikers, Mr. Gridley, Mr. Eiden, and Mr. Rosel showed their prowess by walking home from the Wigwam.

French Club Holds First Business Meeting

Le Cercle Francais held a short business meeting on Monday afternoon in the regular meeting place, Miss Bower's room. This was the first time the French I students had attended a business meeting, so it was sort of a novel experience for them. The matter of the Brainonian pictures was brought up, and all the members were urged to pay their dues if they wanted the picture in the annual. Because exams were so near, and everyone was so busy, no games were played, and the meeting adjourned.

LITERARY

The Declamation contest
Came out fine for all concerned.
We know (and we feel honest)
That they got what they had earned.

We're so proud of Carl and Helen,
We're so glad that they're our own.
Of course, we knew that they would
get it,
But we wanted to be shown.

And Gertrude, that girl from Crosby,
Didn't she just fit the part?
It must be fun, but kind of hard,
To learn "svenska" things by heart.

And next will come the district—
I don't know where that will be.
Don't we hope that the winners
Include one of those three?

A poem fitting that Thursday night could be "When I Have Fears." I'll bet those students did have fears! Another poem that suited last week was "A Birthday" by Christina Rossetti. It was because of a birthday that we had a holiday last week.

Science Classes Making Compressed Air Posters

Miss Sundberg's General Science Classes have been collecting material for posters during the past week. These drawings and magazine clippings are supposed to represent something that works by means of air pressure. There has been some keen competition among the various classes to see which can have the best poster. Miss Sundberg has selected three students from each class to make them. After they are finished the best ones will be on display in Miss Sundberg's room.

—Alice Nolan, Underwriter.

EXCHANGE

The Senior class of Marshall, Minn., are sponsoring a carnival the proceeds of which will go for supporting the Senior Magazine which will be published in place of an annual for 1928.

The basketball team of Little Falls received a number of telegrams from its local merchants wishing them success on a recent road trip. We hope the friendly merchants didn't add, "Please remit—bill past due."

Horrible Ending

There had been a train wreck and one of the two copy writers felt himself slipping from this life. "Goodbye, Charlie," he groaned to his friend, "I'm done for." "Don't say that, Jim," gasped the other in horror. "For heaven's sake don't end your last sentence with a preposition!"—The Owl.

Freshman Meeting

The Freshmen held a meeting Friday, Feb. 24, in Miss Gipson's room. They decided to have a sleighride party two weeks from that night, which would be March 9. The sleigh will go out on the Gilbert Lake road.

As there was no more business, the meeting was adjourned.

The French club in the Forest Grove high school of Oregon have recently voted to make it an honorary society requiring a grade of A in French for membership.

Who, What and Where

The Chemistry students are apparently feeling quite deeply about their work. Why, the other day some of them were actually weeping when they came from lab. For joy or sorrow we know not.

Miss Laipple: What did you find out about the salivary glands.
Weston Schober: I couldn't find anything, they're too secretive.

Don't forget to bring your money for the Annual! You'll want one! Of course! We bet you'll never guess correctly how many times you're in it. Just guess and then get your annual and see how nearly you came to it.

The Economics pupils claim they are getting the writer's cramp but they are only taking an outline for review. They do well! They must average at least thirty words a minute.

THE CLASS PLAY CAST SELECTED

Remember the hint, given several editions before, wherein a faint clue could be found as to the leading characters of the class play. "A rather tall, fair-haired boy and a medium sized fair miss?"

The secret will soon be revealed; in fact, much will be! The cast is going to be announced! But that can wait awhile.

"The Boomerang," you'll find to be a little different from those of the preceding years. It demands much facial expression and action. Those chosen are apparently "putting it over" too. The—will—can't tell any more now, but just wait until you see it.

About eight more people will be added in minor parts.

TO SOLVE DISEASES OF MIDDLE AGE

ALBERT D. LASKER, establishing a special fund of $1,000,000 for medical research of the sort which seeks to prevent or cure what physicians call "the diseases of middle age," remarks the St. Cloud Daily Times, reminds us that we lean too heavily on the doctors for health and happiness.

The doctors do wonders. But they cannot keep any man in good health against his will. There are very simple rules by which many of the "diseases of middle age" can be prevented, and doctors are always urging them upon their patients. But patients seldom take the trouble to listen.

In thousands of laboratories throughout the world specialists in various fields of medical research are seeking constantly for a better knowledge of the forces of life and better means for the control of disease. The Rockefeller Institute has more than once seemed on the verge of discovering the secret of animation and the causes that bring it to an end. Yet it is safe to say that nothing that the science of chemistry or the science of medicine can do will be so effective to prolong life and to prevent "the diseases of middle age" as the simple rules of life, which most people, knowing their value, continue to ignore.

Too much worry, too much work, too much food, too much drink, too much physical ease, too much luxury, and not enough fresh air, exercise, and sleep shorten most lives. And doctors, try as they will, seem able to do very little about it.

Golf has been a godsend to some of the stout men. It has provided moderate exercise, open air, and something to talk about.

BORROWED BOOKS

SOMETIMES the literal mind beats the tactful one, all hollow, in getting results. This is taking no account of hurt feelings, of course; but then, the literal thinkers may come back with the assertion that theirs is the higher tactfulness, since they deal with other people's known disadvantages.

Thus might be regarded the Kansas City husband who acted literally on his wife's notion, expressed with her wish that her friends would return the books they had borrowed of her. Her notion was to run an ad. And that was as far as she went with it.

Not so her husband. Without notifying his wife, he ran the ad. Mrs. Soandso, it read, "wishes that her friends would return borrowed books, so she can loan them out again."

It worked, too. Before Mrs. Soandso knew the ad had been run, she began to get the books back. She had about a hundred out. They came pouring in.

Perhaps the literal mind has discovered the way out, where book folk long have failed for lack of courage, or tact, or something. Even the device of a Return Borrowed Books Week only flashed and then flickered out.

Some will say that all of the credit belongs to advertising. It is too broad a claim. Without advertising, of course, the literal mind that employed it would have been just as impotent as the woman who wished she had her books back. But the initiative that produced the advertisement will command the admiration of many a book lender.—Minneapolis Journal.

MEMORIAL JAILS

A PROPOSAL comes from Texas to dedicate a jail to its most illustrious prisoner. As a memorial it would be made over into a library. It isn't necessary to name the man who occupied the cell. He later served a term in a penitentiary. He protested his innocence of wrongdoing and he became one of the best liked writers of America. Some of his friends think this one episode in his life should drop into oblivion. Others apparently would challenge it grandly with the memorial jail.

In this his friends should decide, but for general purposes as a new memorializing idea it is attractive. Although testimonials to the works of men have almost exhausted the ingenuity of their admirers, certain activities of citizenship have not been recognized in any permanent form.

The Cook county jail might be reconstructed as a brewery and dedicated to Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake. If oil finally gets any one set for ten days, six weeks or three months that sacred place could be converted into an oil filling station with a tablet commemorative of its noble inmate. In general application of the idea communities might get memorial distilleries, banks, law offices, municipal buildings and some high grade chicken coops, possibly a state house or two and some arsenals.—Chicago Tribune.

"To what do you attribute your success," we asked a successful business man. His answer came back promptly: "I always made an effort to discount all of my bills. I was especially careful not to overlook small accounts that have a tendency to grow when neglected."

All successful men will tell much the same story. Credit is every man's most priceless asset. You never know when you may need financial backing, when your good credit will give you an opportunity to make big money.

The man who is commonly said to be "good pay" can usually secure financial support from others when needed. The man who is referred to as "slow" or "no good" can rarely get financial backing regardless of his ability as an entertainer or reputation as a "good fellow."—Hennepin County Review.

SOME people wonder why George Washington filled his diary with weather reports. The general was a scientific farmer and as the government had no weather bureau or agricultural department, the Father of his Country kept his own weather data, compiled his own charts and planted and sowed and reaped accordingly.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR W. I. NOLAN, who addressed local Elks on Past Exalted Rulers night, also spoke at Mankato lodge on a similar night which honored the Past Exalted Rulers.

ASHES and sand should be sprinkled on slippery sidewalks. The covering of snow at present gives no indication of the direction of the ice slant.

BRAINERD HIGH SCHOOL, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1928

NUMBER 23

BRAINERD LOSES
TO C.-I.; DEFEATS
LITTLE FALLS

Brainerd continued to add to its string of victories when it defeated Little Falls, 26-16, last Wednesday evening on the opponents' floor. The game was not very interesting. Despite the fact that Brainerd won by such a large margin, they did not show any outstanding display of offense.

If the game was an indication of Little Falls' strength, Brainerd should win their first game of the tournament. But a number of the fans that witnessed the game are under the impression that as there was nothing much to gain, Little Falls played somewhat of a stalling game. One thing is certain: they were not anxious to get their points on long shots. Little Falls did not get a field goal until near the end of the third quarter.

Substitutions were frequent for Brainerd. Kasch had the opportunity to try different combinations and it was because of these that Little Falls had a chance to get their scores.

Little Falls was somewhat handicapped by the loss of Konechal, a big feature in the scoring card, on account of scholarship standing.

C.-I.-Brainerd

Brainerd's winning streak was broken by the strong C.-I. team Friday night on the opponents' floor, 17-14. Crosby deserved the victory because they played better ball than the locals.

C.-I. started the game with a bang and took the lead which they did not lose the entire game. The score at the first quarter was 5 to 4, at the half 11 to 8, and at the end of the third quarter 13 to 12, all in favor of C.-I. The third quarter was the only time that Brainerd outscored their opponents.

One thing was certain to the spectators: Brainerd was not used to the floor conditions. Time and time again they would shoot and the shots would fall short every time. This may prove somewhat to Brainerd's disadvantage at the tournament but it is certain that the boys will play a better game of ball.

Welliver was high point man for Brainerd with three baskets. This was the first game of the season that Wise was held scoreless. "Franky" deserves credit though, as he played the entire game despite the fact that he had been ill the day preceding.

Smart and R. Krueger were leading scorers for Crosby-Ironton with two baskets and a free throw.

We notice that the George Washington bust and the flag have been moved in the assembly to clear the board on which the announcements are written.

Monday afternoon a second administration of toxin-antitoxin was given to those who had taken the first dose. There was less curiosity and a sense of self assurance filled the air. Experiments still doct.

THE C.-I. GAME

We can't get used to such a thing
As losing a district game,
But what are we a gonna do,
When we are not to blame?

The C.-I. gym has got a floor
That scares us at the sight.
If we had one not near so big
We'd think it quite all right.

When one of our boys gets the ball
He runs to throw it in.
But, where's the basket, out of sight!
Too far away for him.

The players, too, are pretty good.
They run around the floor
A-throwin' them from right and left,
Just making score on score.

Oh, well, we shouldn't worry.
The boys have done their best.
If C.-I. won't give us a game
Next year, we'll be their pest.

CHEMISTRY STUDENTS
FINISH CONTEST ESSAYS

The Chemistry students of both classes wrote essays for the Gawan Scholarship Contest. It is sponsored by the American Chemical Society for which big awards are offered—scholarships to Yale and Vassar, also 20 dollars in gold to each of the six best in every state.

The contestants entering must write on the six topics given: The Relation of Chemistry to Health and Disease, to the Enrichment of Life, to Agriculture, to Forestry, to National Defense, to the Home, to the Development of an Industry, and to the Resources of the United States.

Mr. Gridley considered the following contestants' essays good enough to send in to the State Society—Lois Untereker, Edith Johnson, Maude Thompson, Elsie Swanson, Elmer Anderson, Carl Maxe, Verne McNamara, Donald McNamara, Orval Herington, Dale Sanders, Winel Barnes, Kenneth Storm, Margaret Jackson, and Joseph Greener.

The material for the essay was procured from the Public Library and also from the Library in the Chemistry Room.

FREE THROW CONTEST
AT INTERCLASS GAMES

A free throw contest will be held for the girls for the first time. It will be held between the last two games of the interclass tournament on the seventh of March.

Each class can have one girl to represent it. This girl will be appointed by the coach or elected by the members present at a practise. Letter girls are eligible.

Some of the Semper Paratus club members canvassed the various assemblies, Thursday morning selling tickets for the Declamation contest to be held that night.

A couple of Senior meetings were held during the week concerning the sleighride to Merrifield which was held on Saturday.

Many of the students witnessed the Little Falls-Brainerd game there and also the Crosby-Ironton-Brainerd game there.

If one sees some of the English 4 students floating around in the halls, just know that he either thinks he is "The Happy Warrior" or is "Wandering Lonely As A Cloud." Such poems fill their hearts and souls now.

Tribute to the Seniors

While we were reciting Modern History in Miss Graham's room someone whispered excitedly, "A bird flew past the window!" "That's a sign that Spring will soon be here," whispered another. "How do you know that Spring is coming soon, just because a bird flew past the window?" and "What kind of a bird was he?" were the questions that went around the room. We all knew that robins announce Spring, blackbirds mean sorrow and bluebirds, of course, mean happiness. Some said the bird was larger and others were certain that it was smaller but not one of us was certain what kind of a bird it was that flew past the windows.

At the close of class fater careful search in Miss Laipple's Nature Magazine, we all agreed that the description exactly fitted a cuckoo bird. So we Sophomores are of the opinion that this bird was not a herald of Spring but a common cuckoo bird that Mr. Kelly had brought with him especially for the Seniors to attract their attention while he took a class picture of these stately persons.

ANNUAL SALE
CAMPAIGN STARTS
ON TUESDAY

THIS YEAR'S BOOK WILL BE ONE
OF THE
BEST

YOU'LL WANT A '28 ANNUAL.
ONE DOLLAR BRINGS
IT TO YOU

Under the direction of Kathleen Early, a sales campaign for the '28 Brainonian was started this morning which will reach every student in high school. Publishing the annual is the largest task undertaken by the high school students. This year the seventh volume will be published, marking a steady increase in sales volume and in quality and quantity of contents.

Giving out information about the book, Miss Early said, "You'll want a '28 Annual. It's got 'it'—what-ever 'it' is. Just as soon as you've turned the first page you'll know I'm right. It's got life in it—and when you get it nicely decorated with authentic signatures! We'll see you sometime this week—till then keep in mind that your Annual costs you only one dollar!" Maybe she didn't say it exactly that way but that's what she meant.

And let me quote Muff Downie. He said, "I wish you could see the book as I can! If you could, you would positively want one or two. Why they even fought over last year's!"

This year's book has a very good looking Senior section, more than a catalogue—likenesses and all the dope!

The Activities section contains pictures and write-ups on Junior parties, Soph's Valentine and other festivities, and several Freshman affairs. The Semper Paratus club monopolizes enough space to tell about the Christmas program, declamation, causes and results, the Hard-Time Brawl, and the Annual Banquet. The Commercial club gets in a word about the sleigh ride.

The Hi-Y tells about the convention and proudly displays the large pile of empty bean cans behind the Y. M. C. A. hotel. The French and Latin clubs bid for space.

The Annual is one dollar—one first cost and no upkeep! You'll be asked for your opinion upon the vital question of this book's value in your eyes within the week so make up your mind. But don't kid yourself—you'll want a '28 Annual.

THE OPERETTA CAST IS NEARLY COMPLETE

The cast for the operetta, "Pickles", is almost complete.

There have been many trials for parts and a great deal of fine material has incidentally been discovered.

Miss Rickard shows much enthusiasm over the ready response of the Glee Clubs and the student body to the call for the trying out of the operetta characters. She says that up to this time prospects for a great success are clearly evident, regardless of the general tendency of the cast to learn the "Pickles" solo to the detriment of their own particular parts.

SIDE LIGHTS ON THE SENIOR SLEIGH RIDE

This was scheduled as a sleigh ride, but Muff Downie, Joe Greener, and Ray Meyers walked three miles before they caught up with the party—promises well for our outlook in track.

Two of the bobs tipped over—no body hurt but those at the bottom of the pile felt like the old-fashioned football players when two elevens piled on them.

The beans eaten at Merrifield would supply even the Hi-Y bean feeds for some time to come.

Our famous hikers, Mr. Gridley, Mr. Eiden, and Mr. Rosel showed their prowess by walking home from the Wigwam.

French Club Holds
First Business Meeting

Le Cercle Francais held a short business meeting on Monday afternoon in the regular meeting place, Miss Bower's room. This was the first time the French I students had attended a business meeting, so it was sort of a novel experience for them. The matter of the Brainonian pictures was brought up, and all the members were urged to pay their dues if they wanted the picture in the annual. Because exams were so near, and everyone was so busy, no games were played, and the meeting adjourned.

LITERARY

The Declamation contest
Came out fine for all concerned.
We know (and we feel honest)
That they got what they had earned.

We're so proud of Carl and Helen,
We're so glad that they're our own.
Of course, we knew that they would
get it,
But we wanted to be shown.

And Gertrude, that girl from Crosby,
Didn't she just fit the part?
It must be fun, but kind of hard,
To learn "svenska" things by heart.

And next will come the district—
I don't know where that will be.
Don't we hope that the winners
Include one of those three?

A poem fitting that Thursday night could be "When I Have Fears." I'll bet those students did have fears!
Another poem that suited last week was "A Birthday" by Christina Rossetti. It was because of a birthday that we had a holiday last week.

Science Classes Making
Compressed Air Posters

Miss Sundberg's General Science Classes have been collecting material for posters during the past week. These drawings and magazine clippings are supposed to represent something that works by means of air pressure. There has been some keen competition among the various classes to see which can have the best poster. Miss Sundberg has selected three students from each class to make them. After they are finished the best ones will be on display in Miss Sundberg's room.

—Alice Nolan, Underwriter.

EXCHANGE

The Senior class of Marshall, Minn., are sponsoring a carnival the proceeds of which will go for supporting the Senior Magazine which will be published in place of an annual for 1928.

The basketball team of Little Falls received a number of telegrams from its local merchants wishing them success on a recent road trip. We hope the friendly merchants didn't add, "Please remit—bill past due."

Horrible Ending

There had been a train wreck and one of the two copy writers felt himself slipping from this life.
"Goodbye, Charlie," he groaned to his friend, "I'm done for."

"Don't say that, Jim," gasped the other in horror. "For heaven's sake don't end your last sentence with a preposition!"—The Owl.

Freshman Meeting

The Freshmen held a meeting Friday, Feb. 24, in Miss Gipson's room. They decided to have a sleighride party two weeks from that night, which would be March 9. The sleigh will go out on the Gilbert Lake road.

As there was no more business, the meeting was adjourned.

Who, What and Where

The Chemistry students are apparently feeling quite deeply about their work. Why, the other day some of them were actually weeping when they came from lab. For joy or sorrow we know not.

Miss Laipple: What did you find out about the salivary glands.
Weston Schober: I couldn't find anything, they're too secretive.

Don't forget to bring your money for the Annual! You'll want one! Of course! We bet you'll never guess correctly how many times you're in it. Just guess and then get your annual and see how nearly you came to it.

The Economics pupils claim they are getting the writer's cramp but they are only taking an outline for review. They do well! They must average at least thirty words a minute.

THE CLASS PLAY
CAST SELECTED

Remember the hint, given several editions before, wherein a faint clue could be found as to the leading characters of the class play, "a rather tall, fair-haired boy and a medium sized fair miss?"

The secret will soon be revealed: in fact, much will be! The cast is going to be announced! But that can wait awhile.

"The Boomerang" you'll find to be a little different from those of the preceding years. It demands much facial expression and action. Those chosen are apparently "putting it over" too. The—will—can't tell any more now, but just wait until you see it.

MISSING STUDENT MAY BE IN COUNTY

New York Sun Requests Information in Tracing Down Frances St. John Smith

ALL CLUES FOLLOWED UP

Mrs. Fred Hagadorn Believes Stranger Girl in Country May be One Wanted

The Brainerd Dispatch was in receipt yesterday afternoon of a telegram from the New York Sun which stated that Mrs. Fred Hagadorn, 1202 Fourth avenue N. E. had written asking for a description and photograph of Frances St. John Smith, missing Smith college student.

Mrs. Hagadorn was interviewed and stated that she had requested the information because, she believed, she had seen a girl in the country who answered somewhat to the description given out by the newspapers.

Mrs. Hagadorn desired further information on the description of the missing girl before giving the location of the stranger.

The missing student disappeared Friday, January 13 from the college and all clues of her whereabouts have been traced down without success. A reward of over $30,000 has been offered for information leading to her recovery.

Girl Not Miss Smith

The girl believed at first to possibly be the missing college student has been positively identified as a Minnesota girl and not Miss Smith.

Description of the Smith girl was telephoned to the Brainerd Dispatch today by the New York Sun. The girl in question here failed to meet the description given of Miss Smith. The city editor of the New York Sun in conversation with the Brainerd Dispatch stated that Miss Smith was 18 years old, five feet five inches tall, weight, 125 pounds, light brown hair, and bluish gray eyes.

Twenty visitors were in attendance at the dinner and smoker. A representative from the branch office at Minneapolis was present and spoke.

Dangerous Combination

A blonde girl, a fetching negligee, and an elastic conscience make a dangerous combination. Lane Chandler finds that out as Judge Anthony Cowles in "Love and Learn," the Paramount picture starring Esther Ralston, showing at the Lyceum tonight and Wednesday. Then when another blonde girl gets mixed up in the situation it is just plain dynamite. The first girl is Helen Lynch who plays the vampire. The second girl is Esther Ralston.

C. R. NASH RESIGNS U. S. REVENUE POST

Assistant Commissioner of Bureau Ends Service for Railroad Berth

IS SON OF CHARLES J. NASH

Young Man to Become Associated With Van Sweringen Interests at Cleveland

Washington, D. C., papers carried an article concerning a former Brainerd boy, Charles R. Nash, son of Charles J. Nash of this city:

Charles R. Nash, assistant to the commissioner of internal revenue, has resigned that position, effective March 31, he announced at the Treasury today.

Mr. Nash will become associated with the Van Sweringen interests at Cleveland. These interests virtually control the Erie, C. & O., Nickel Plate and Lehigh Valley Railroads.

No indication was forthcoming from the Treasury as to who will succeed him.

Mr. Nash entered the service of the Bureau of Internal Revenue February 21, 1910, as a deputy collector. Other positions held by him in the service include that of storekeeper-rauger, cashier, bookkeeper and as chief office deputy of the St. Paul, Minn., election district.

He was promoted July 21, 1919 to be assistant supervisor of collectors' offices. In May, 1922, the Secretary of the Treasury consolidated the supervisor of collectors' offices and the accounts unit into one large unit, known as the accounts and collection unit, of which Mr. Nash was appointed deputy commissioner in charge. He was appointed to the position of assistant to the commissioner of internal revenue on June 16, 1923, but when the revenue act of 1926 made this a presidential appointment he was appointed by President Coolidge, confirmed by the Senate and took a new oath of office March 28, 1926.

As budget officer he has represented the Bureau of Internal Revenue before the Bureau of the Budget and appropriations committees of Congress. He is also a member of the committee on tax revision.

Madden Pays Tribute

Mr. Nash was tendered a tribute by Chairman Martin B. Madden of the subcommittee of the House committee on appropriations on the occasion of Mr. Nash's last appearance there.

"Mr. Nash has been coming before this committee for a long time," Mr. Madden said. "I do not think we have ever had a man from any branch of the Government service who has been more helpful to us than he. He always has known what he was talking about, and always has been willing to co-operate with us in our effort to economize. He has been perhaps the most efficient man that I have seen in connection with any administrative work of the Government in all his activity."

"He has been clean, courteous, forceful, systematic, painstaking and extremely effective. He is going to leave the service much to my regret."

"I want him to take away from this meeting which probably will be the last meeting at which he will appear, the statement I have just made, showing the satisfaction that we feel in connection with his work in the Treasury Department. An assistant Internal Revenue Commissioner he has had greater familiarity with the work of the revenue section

Mrs. Fred Hagadorn Believes Stranger Girl in Country May be One Wanted

The Brainerd Dispatch was in receipt yesterday afternoon of a telegram from the New York Sun which stated that Mrs. Fred Hagadorn, 1202 Fourth avenue N. E. had written asking for a description and photograph of Frances St. John Smith, missing Smith college student.

Mrs. Hagadorn was interviewed and stated that she had requested the information because, she believed, she had seen a girl in the country who answered somewhat to the description given out by the newspapers.

Mrs. Hagadorn desired further information on the description of the missing girl before giving the location of the stranger.

The missing student disappeared Friday, January 13 from the college and all clues of her whereabouts have been traced down without success. A reward of over $30,000 has been offered for information leading to her recovery.

Girl Not Miss Smith

The girl believed at first to possibly be the missing college student has been positively identified as a Minnesota girl and not Miss Smith.

Description of the Smith girl was telephoned to the Brainerd Dispatch today by the New York Sun. The girl in question here failed to meet the description given of Miss Smith. The city editor of the New York Sun in conversation with the Brainerd Dispatch stated that Miss Smith was 18 years old, five feet five inches tall, weight, 125 pounds, light brown hair, and bluish gray eyes.

SYNOPSIS

Bucknell, San Francisco boss, with laicyer, Brandon, attempts to gain possession of Vasquez ranch, occupied by Vasquez and his beautiful granddaughter Dolores. Terry, Brandon's nephew, who loves Dolores, discovers their plot. Terry and Dolores have misunderstanding. Dolores falls into Bucknell's clutches. Is saved by Terry. Angered, Bucknell uses force to oust Vasquez. Is cleverly defeated. He tries to kill Terry, but Vasquez heads Terry's warning and confronts Bucknell. Vasquez dies from stroke caused by Bucknell's threats. Dolores alone in world. She discovers Bucknell's Chinese origin. She tells Terry the news. They plan to expose Bucknell and avenge grandfather's death.

Chapter XIV—Continued

He suddenly stopped laughing, rubbed his upper lip nervously, burst into tears and buried his face in extended arms on the table. "Terry," whispered Dolores, "what do you suppose is the matter with that man over there, the one with his head on the table?" Following her direction, Terry replied, "Why, I guess he had too much to drink or else he is a dope; there are hundreds of them around. The Chinamen bring the stuff in." "How pitiful!" Dolores did not care to look about the room any more. "I hope we do not have to wait much longer." They didn't. The fat suave Chinese manager approached with the long aproned waiter. "You—send for me?" he smiled, bowing low before them. "We want to see Lu Fong," replied Terry. "Not know!" the gleam of lurking suspicion in his eyes belied the stupid reply. "What's the matter—Isn't he here?" Terry spoke sharply. The manager immediately assumed a vacant expression and

"Waiter, make that three beers."

shook his head. "I—not know," he said again. Controlling his exasperation Terry eyed the yellow man sternly. "It may interest him to know that we possess information which could place Chris Bucknell in his power." The effect of his announcement was disappointing. The Chinaman showed only a flicker of interest, then he glanced at Dolores. She became uncomfortable and clutched Terry's arm. Apparently her appearance pleased and decided the manager. Guiding Dolores by the arm and having no intention of letting her out of his sight until the errand was finished they followed the guide the entire length of the room into a vacant booth at the other end. "You wait," he instructed them briefly, "I come back."

"It is all so mystifying and so odd," observed Dolores. "I wish there was some other way we could accomplish our purpose."

"Never mind, dear, don't pay any attention to the people," Terry placed a chair so she would not have to look into the main room, then moving closer he held her hand protectively.

Their attempt for seclusion was useless. A sailor and his disreputable looking companion were ushered into the booth and took possession of the two remaining chairs. "Two beers," ordered the sailor, but looking up he saw Dolores. It had been his luck to visit almost every part of the world but never before had he come across such beauty in a woman. "God, I've missed my ship for janes that couldn't sail the same seas with her!" he thought to himself, then aloud, "Waiter, make that three beers," and to Dolores' horror he grinned at her. His meaning was clear.

Her cheeks turned crimson and after one appealing glance at Terry she pretended to examine a lace handkerchief that she was holding in her lap.

Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 27.—With Dazy Vance unsigned, the Brooklyn Robins were scheduled to take their first workout of the training season here today.

Vance and Manager Wilbert Robertson conferred over the salary dispute yesterday, but no announcement of the outcome was made.

Vance is holding out for a two-year contract at $20,000 a season. The Robins are understood to have

The sailor's effrontery was galling. He tried to catch Dolores' eye despite Terry's forbidding frown. It was a maddening situation for the young lover. He resented any man even looking at Dolores yet here he was bringing her to a rendezvous of the Cocktail Route where she was the admiration of every man who saw her. Terry wanted to get up and drive his fists into the sailor's face but knew it would be wise to restrain himself. They would be called out of the booth at any moment. The man had not spoken disrespectfully. There was nothing definite enough to start a fight about and Terry did not want to be put out of the cafe. He had come to help, not humiliate or harm Dolores. Getting into a fist fight would only complicate matters.

When the waiter returned with three foaming mugs of beer the sailor was still trying to attract Dolores' attention and the woman was working equally hard to turn his admiring glances her way. For her part she could not see why a man wanted to look twice at a frail young thing like Dolores. Didn't men want women to please them? And what could that innocent thing across the table know about life?

The waiter placed one beer before the woman and lined up the other two in front of the sailor. Dolores saw a calloused hand, extending from the sleeve of a tight cuffed middle, push a mug of beer toward her. Looking up she found the sailor leaning across the table grinning into her face.

She shook her head and quickly glanced away.

"The lady doesn't care for any," interposed Jerry in an effort to avoid trouble.

The sailor's earlier preference for a companion looked up from the depths of her beer mug and was not pleased with her man's shifting interest.

"Come on 'ere—can't ye be decent?" and grabbing his arm she deliberately made him spill the beer in his lap. "Awk!" he growled uncomfortably. "What's eatin' ye?" and he slapped her on the side of her head with his big open hand.

"Say—you big stiff—cut that out!" the wench scrambled to her feet and returned the sailor's slap with an unexpected and well aimed swing that knocked him backwards in his chair to the floor. It was more the unexpected attack than the force of the blow that upset him. It caught him off balance and his drink sodden brain refused to direct his half paralyzed muscles. While the fall served to take his mind off Dolores for the moment, nevertheless it aroused him to a frenzied fury. With a disgusting oath he struggled to his feet and reached for his woman with outstretched hands. The fingers opened and closed with a terrifying strength. There was murder in the insane leer on his face.

Terry knew that this was no place for Dolores. For himself he didn't care. He rather enjoyed the prospect of trouble but it would have been folly for him to interfere in any way. His first thought was of her. Dolores' safety was his first consideration. Beckoning her to arise, Terry got to his feet and putting his arm protectively around her he backed away to the side of the room and leaned against the wall. Here they could see all that happened without being in the direct line of the fracas.

All eyes were turned upon the advancing sailor and the woman who was the object of his wrath. She backed away from his lurching figure without the least sign of fear and picking up an empty beer bottle, poised it threateningly. It was evident that she had been in similar battles before. Before anything happened to either of them, a foolish waiter grabbed the sailor's arm. It was an invitation for immediate trouble and he got it. The sailor turned on him with a snarl of rage and drove his fist into the waiter's face with a force that knocked him under a table six feet away. The blow was the spark that caused the fireworks. Other waiters jumped the sailor from all sides and he went to the floor with a half a dozen of them on top of him. Several sailors rushed to their friend's assistance and soon the fight became a wild melee.

Dolores was horrified. She was seeing life with a real vengeance. More than she had ever dreamed of in her wildest moments. Terry watched with sparkling eyes. He longed to join in the mix-up but the trembling grasp of Dolores' fingers on his arm brought a sense of his true responsibility. He held her close to him and shielded her as much as possible from the disgusting spectacle.

From a room back of the bar the manager, returning for Dolores and Terry, gazed on the fight. The whole establishment looked as if it might be wrecked so he called upon the professional bouncers.

Dolores alone in world. She discovers Buckwell's Chinese origin. She tells Terry the news. They plan to expose Buckwell and avenge grandfather's death.

He suddenly stopped laughing, rubbed his upper lip nervously, burst into tears and buried his face in extended arms on the table. "Terry," whispered Dolores, "what do you suppose is the matter with that man over there, the one with his head on the table?" Following her direction, Terry replied, "Why, I guess he had too much to drink or else he is a dope; there are hundreds of them around. The Chinamen bring the stuff in."

"How pitiful!" Dolores did not care to look about the room any more. "I hope we do not have to wait much longer."

They didn't. The fat suave Chinese manager approached with the long aproned waiter. "You—send for me?" he smiled, bowing low before them.

"We want to see Lu Fong," replied Terry. "—not know!" the gleam of lurking suspicion in his eyes belied the stupid reply.

"What's the matter—isn't he here?" Terry spoke sharply. The manager immediately assumed a vacant expression and

"Waiter, make that three beers," shook his head, "I—don't know," he said again.

Controlling his exasperation Terry eyed the yellow man sternly. "It may interest him to know that we possess information which could place Chris Buckwell in his power."

The effect of his announcement was disappointing. The Chinaman showed only a flicker of interest, then he glanced at Dolores. She became uncomfortable and clutched Terry's arm. Apparently her appearance pleased and decided the manager.

Guiding Dolores by the arm and having no intention of letting her out of his sight until the errand was finished they followed the guide the entire length of the room into a vacant booth at the other end.

"You wait," he instructed them briefly, "I come back."

"It is all so mystifying and so did," observed Dolores. "I wish there was some other way we could accomplish our purpose."

"Never mind, dear, don't pay any attention to the people," Terry placed a chair so she would not have to look into the main room, then moving closer he held her hand protectively.

Their attempt for seclusion was useless. A sailor and his disreputable looking companion were ushered into the booth and took possession of the two remaining chairs.

"Two beers," ordered the sailor, but looking up he saw Dolores. It had been his luck to visit almost every port of the world but never before had he come across such beauty in a woman. "God, I've missed my ship for janes that couldn't sail the same seas with her!" he thought to himself, then aloud, "Waiter, make that three beers," and to Dolores' horror he grinned at her. His meaning was clear.

Her cheeks turned crimson and after one appealing glance at Terry she pretended to examine a lace handkerchief that she was holding in her lap.
